

Yankees and Dodgers to Pick Training Camps To-day—War Cry Wins Bowie Feature

Spring Series Again Planned By Locals

Huggins Favors Jacksonville or New Orleans; Robinson May Choose a New Site

By W. J. Macbeth

At a joint meeting of the board of directors of the Yankees and Dodgers, held this morning at the Hotel New Yorker, the two clubs agreed to hold a spring series in Jacksonville, Fla., or New Orleans, La., in 1921.

The past four or five years these teams have been more or less closely associated in spring training. Indeed, the first year, Ebbets Field was thrown open to the two boroughs for an ante-season series of five games. That happened to be the first year Frank Chance had the Yankees, and the affair went so big that it has been repeated ever since.

For the last two seasons both the Yankees and Dodgers have trained at Jacksonville, Fla., where two ball parks are available for the purpose. The exhibition games were played on the grounds of the Yankees in that city. Later the teams toured North in company with the visiting out-of-town series at Ebbets Field.

Yankees May Not Shift

The owners of both the Yankees and Dodgers are anxious to maintain these friendly relations, which have proved beneficial in the training of the clubs as well as financially successful. It is doubtful, however, if both teams will return to Jacksonville.

The grounds which the Yankees have been using, preferably, the other club, where there are no accommodations for a crowd of any size. The management of the Brooklyn champions has considered a move further South, to Jacksonville, Fla., or New Orleans, La., as a possibility.

It seems more probable than a week ago that the Yankees will take another chance with Jacksonville, Florida continues one of the most popular spring states for the big leaguers. The Cincinnati Reds have left for Miami, and it is possible Brooklyn may utilize their spring base there. The Phillies will train at Gainesville, Fla., where the Giants were seen in 1919, and which is only three hours from Jacksonville.

There will be many major league clubs wintering in the South in the next few days. The Yankees and Dodgers will have the last say as to training place for 1921, favors a quick jump Southward early enough to get the acclimating his players after the return home. The Yankees and Dodgers last spring made only five stops between Jacksonville and New York. A trip to Texas would disarrange the scheme of quick jumps, but the matter could very easily be arranged from such a base as New Orleans.

It now seems that either Jacksonville or New Orleans will entertain the world's champion home-run hitter of all time in the spring of 1921. To-day may definitely decide the matter.

In the opinion of Bob Connery, the scout of the Yankees, who combed the Far Western territory every season, Johnny Mitchell, the shortstop recently acquired by the New York Americans from St. Louis, is ready for fast company. Mitchell on the far slope is considered quite as promising a prospect as was Bobby Meusel a year ago.

Lafayette to Have Full Strength Against Lehigh

EASTON, Pa., Nov. 19.—Lafayette will have its best team on the field in the game with Lehigh University here to-morrow afternoon for the first time since the game with the University of Pittsburgh three weeks ago. The line-up will be: Left end, Hummel; left tackle, Williams; left guard, Schwab; center, Brown; right guard, Budd; right tackle, Deibel; right end, Reilly; quarterback, Brennan; left halfback, Gazzella; right halfback, Lehecka; fullback, Senselitz.

It was stated to-night that in all probability the Lafayette team will start the game without having a permanent captain. No captain was elected last fall or this season. Frank Schwab, the sophomore guard, has been acting captain in every game, and no doubt will do so to-morrow.

Browns Release Gedeon

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 19.—The unconditional release of Joe Gedeon, second baseman, was announced to-day by the St. Louis American League club. Gedeon had been held by the Chicago grand jury that he had been in the world's series in 1919 after receiving information it had been "fixed." Every club in the majors waived on Gedeon.
